THE PRESIDENT'S LATEST AP-PEARANCES.

If it were possible to analyze the "reason why" it would likely develop that Woodrow Wilson gained the presidency because of his easy, graceful manner, and sauve speech. He appears to the American people after the manner of the song:

"There is something in your man-

There is something in your smile, There is something seems to tell me You are just my style."

He is wholly unlike his predecessors, for where Taft argued and reasoned. Wilson simply beckons to "follow me;" stick. Wilson coaxes with a lump of newly-naturalized citizens was honeyhe made, left a pleasant taste, but they were purposely colorless, though richly patriotic. In his appearance before the South Americans, who are in Washington, he emphasized the need of better means of communication, and gave the impression that he would push his shipping bill again at the coming session of Congress. There was nothing startling in anything he said. His manner, his smile, and his style are captivating. In making neufchatel, pimento or cream cheese, care must be taken not to have so much acid developed in them that it imparts an unpleasant taste and the cheese should not be so dry as to erumble nor contain so much moisture that whey escapes in the package, giving it a very untidy and displeasing appearance.

SKIM-MILK CHEESE.

Skim-milk cheese as the name imdies is made from skim-milk. It is also called Cottage or Dutch Cheese. The most common method of manufacture of skim-milk cheese is to add enough good flavored starter (usually about five percent) to the skim milk to sour it in the desired time. When ongulated, it is cut into small cebeo by the use of cheese knives, as in cheddar cheese making. Heat is then opplied and the temperature is raised to about ninety-six to one hundred and two degrees Fahrenheit, using from twenty-five to forty minutes in heating A soluble Antiseptic Powder to and gently stirring the curd during the time it is heated. Allow it to stand at this temperature for a short time with an occasional stirring, then drain into a cloth bag or strainer covered the curd through the cloth and in this way lose it. When the particles are dry enough so that they will not stick together, the cloth is squeezed until The Paxton Tollet Co., Boston, Mass. all free whey has escaped, or until the cheese will granulate if rubbed with the hands. It should then be couled as in the case of neufchatel cheese. It of one ounce of salt to six pounds of so that steam or hot water may be addwhen cut. Water can also be used in the jacket to keep the skim milk at March 22nd, 1915. the desired temperature while souring 5.20-3t.

Another common method of manufacture is similar to that of neufchatel except that more starter (usually about five percent) and more salt is used, but this cheese should never be confused with neufchatel cheese. This cheese is usually marketed in either one half or cream pails, or in boxes made especial- year of our Lord, one thousand per pound and the returns from one

Paper mills closed down Monday and the day was observed by all the business men as a holiday. Nearly all the stores were closed, many attending the opening ball game of the season on the grounds of the Oxford Athletic Associ ation, two games being played between the Pilgrims of Lewiston and the Oxfords. The first game resulted in a and the afternoon game with a score of 5 to 0 in favor of the Oxfords. There sand on the grounds.

What came near being a very serious accident occurred on Sunday, when Nathan Israelson was trying out a new automobile recently purchased by him. Nathan is not yet an expert at the wheel, and crossing the bridge near Morse's mill his wires got crossed and his machine took a header onto the sidewalk and banged against the iron railing, which, though badly bent outward held. If it had given away the machine would have gone into the river machine was slightly damaged.

THE TENT CATERPILLAR.

Arsenicals Most Effective Remedy Against This Post-Other Methods of Control.

The conspicuous, unsightly nests or ents of the apple-tree tent caterpillar are familiar objects in the spring in trees along roadways, streams, and fences, in neglected orchards, and elsewhere. Several methods of checking the depredations of this caterpillar are given in a new publication of the department's Farmers' Bulletin, No. 662.

These gregations enterpillars construct the tents for their protection, and these, at first small, are gradually enlarged often to a foot or more in height and diameter, the size varying with the number of individuals in the colony. The enterpillars feed upon the foliage of the trees, stripping the leaves from the limbs adjacent to the nest, and if there be several colonies in a tree, as is frequently the case during periods of abundance, the foliage may be quite destroyed; leaving the brapches as bare as in mid-winter.

Species of the tent caterpillar are found quite generally over the entire United States. The moths denosit their ting pulp wood on the Basson farm eggs by early mid-summer, or earlier in the South. By fall the embryonic lavre is practically full grown, within the eggs where it remains until the for his new house which is to be built following spring. With the coming of a warm spell the lavre escapes by gnawing through their egg-shells, often Littlehale and wife attended the Me. before there is foliage out for food, and under these circumstances they may feed upon the glatinous covering of the egg mass.

GOOD SILAGE CORN.

Harold S. Osler, Assistant Professor of Agronomy. Farmers' Week Course, Orono, Maine,

The corn crop, under average conditions of soil and climate is a large yielder of nutritious substance that is both palatable and digestible and relished by all stock. It can be used as a soiling crop or as a successful feed for winter. It can be used as a roughage or ripened and fed as a concentrate in some parts of the State. The advantages of silnge as a feed and as a source of succulence in the ration is generally acknowledged by all stock farmers. In silage preservation, practically all of the forage is preserved in an edible form and the loss in preserving and feeding is very small. It is more paintable than dry fodder. Its preservation is not so dependent on weather conditions and it requires less space for storage than the equivalent feeding value in hay or fodder.

Corn, to make ensilage of the best feeding value, should be cut when the grain is in the glaze. On account of our short growing seasons, some feeding value must necessarily be sacrificed for succulence. Because of the shortness of the growing season, the flint varieties come nearest to maturing, Sanford's, White Flint, Red Cob, being best for the northern regions. In addition to these, some seed of the Leaming and Southern varieties are used in the southern part of the state. Canada Flint and Haskell's Prize-taker Flint Corn are used both as a grain and ensilage corn. Much improvement can be made by corn growers of the State to develop a desirable acclimated

SYNOPSIS.

Frank O'Connell, young Irish patriot, is shot and wounded by British soldiers while making a home rule speech. He is aided by Angela Kingsnorth, an English society girl, who defends him.

Angela takes O'Connell to her brother's home and helps to nurse him. He recovers, and he and the girl become fast friends. O'Connell when well is sent to fall for disturbing the peace. He finally writes Angela that he has finished his sentence. O'Connell and Angela wed. She has espoused the Irish cause. Her brother, a member of parliament, is very anyry. The happy couple come to America to live. A daughter is born to them. Anela's brother refuses to help the couple in any way. Angela dies.

O'Connell names his daughter Margaret and calls her "Pog." O'Connell receives a most important letter from England.

O'Connell allows Peg to visit England at her uncle's request. The elder Kings-north's heart had finally softened toward his dead sister's little girl.

Peg goes to the home of the Chichester Amily in England at the direction of Mr. Hawkes, Kingsnorth's attorney, as Kingsnorth suddenly dies.

She first meets Ethel Chichester and Brent, a married man in love with Ethel. She interrupts them by accident in a Ethel is enraged at Peg and haughtly dismisses her from the drawing room, sending her to the servants' quarters. The PRODUCTION OF COPPER IN 1914.

The copper production of the United States in 1914 will show a marked decrease from that of 1913, according to figures and estimates collected by B. S. Butler, of the United States Geological Survey. Reports have been received from all plants known to produce blister copper from domestic ores and refined copper. At an average price of about 13.5 cents a pound, the 1914 output has a value of $152,400,000, compared with $189,795,000 for the 1913 output. CONTAGIOUS ABORTION.

Jostly Disease of Cattle Should be Combated by Thorough Disinfection of Animals and Premises.

In response to many requests for in formation as to the prevention and treatment of contagious abortion o cattle, the department's specialists in animal diseases have recommended the following method of combating the infection:

The disease is caused by a specific infective agent, the Bacillus abortus, and abortion occurs comparatively infrequently from other causes. Many persons have thought that abortion was due to injury such as blows, hern thrusts, falls, etc., or to the eating of spoiled feed or certain herbs, but careful investigations have proved these views to be largely unfounded. Contagious abortion is a very insidious disease, and as it does not markedly affect the health of the individual cow its presence may not be recognized untion in 1914 was due to curtailment of til the infection has extended through-The bell rang again. Terre Hill, Pa.-"Kindly permit me to give you my testimonial in favor of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vogetable Compound. When I first began taking it I was suffering from female troubles for some time and had almost all kinds of aches-pains in lower part of back and in sides, and pressing down pains. I could not sleep and had no appetite. Since I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound the aches and pains are all gone and I feel like a new woman. I cannot praise your medicine too highly."-Mrs. Augustus Lyon, Terre Hill, Pa.

It is true that nature and a woman's work has produced the grandest remedy for woman's illy that the world has ever known. From the roots and herbs of the field, Lydia E. Pinkham, forty years ago, gave to womankind a ramedy for their peculiar ills which has proved more efficacious than any other combination of drugs ever compounded, and today Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is recognized from coast to coast as the standard remedy for woman's ills.

In the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., are files containing hundreds of thousands of letters from women seeking health-many of them openly state over their own signatures that they have regained their health by taking Lydia.
